Climb in and fasten your belts; it's going to be a wild ride. As noted in earlier posts here, there are two widely available editions of The Cosmic

A gravitational lens is a distribution of matter (such as a cluster of galaxies) between a distant light source and an observer, that is capable of bending the light from the source as the light travels towards the observer. This effect is known as gravitational lensing, and the amount of bending is one of the predictions of Albert Einstein's general theory of relativity.

In cosmology, the steady state model is an alternative to the Big Bang theory of the evolution of the universe. In the steady state model, the density of matter in the expanding universe remains unchanged due to a continuous creation of matter, thus adhering to the perfect cosmological principle, a principle that asserts that the observable universe is basically the same at any time as well as ...

Models of the Universe are described and classified into three major categories: Historic, Expanding, and Cellular. It is shown that all expanding universe models violate the cosmic edge and containment principle. The multi-millennium conflict between the two major world views --the changing dynamic universe and the unchanging stable universe-- is highlighted.

The origin of the highest-energy cosmic rays is believed to be extragalactic (), but their acceleration sites remain unidentified. High-energy neutrinos are expected to be produced in or near the acceleration sites when cosmic rays interact with matter and ambient light, producing charged mesons that decay into neutrinos and other particles.
