Memoir falls under the category of autobiography, but is used as its sub-genre. The major difference between memoir and autobiography is that a memoir is a centralized and more specific storytelling, while an autobiography spans the entire life of a person with intricate details such as the childhood, family history, education, and profession.

tions to other memoirs of the proscriptions, particularly those of Messalla. These chapters tend to clarify what Augustus's account, rendered before half his life was lived, did not undertake to do or did not succeed in. Specialists in the period will find much to mine and debate in a volume that should be in all graduate libraries.

Memoirs (1838), edited posthumously by Charles Dickens, this essay seeks to demonstrate that what we often term coulrophobia (the fear of clowns) has its origins in a narrative of memorializing that takes place in the midst of rapid social change.

Clowns on the Verge of a Nervous Breakdown: Dickens

"To be or not to be; that is the question." This technique is called 'enjambment'. It creates a sense of expectation and adds a dynamic movement of the verse. Compared with a prose; written or spoken language in its ordinary form, poetry depends less on the structure of sentences and paragraphs, and ...
