Dielectric waveguides at millimeter wave frequencies are desirable because these guiding structures have relatively small dimensions and systems can be easily integrated on single wafer chips. The components have applications for: (1) grating surface emitting antennas, (2) millimeter wave filters, (3) millimeter wave phase shifters and others.

Millimeter-Wave Applications of Semiconductor Dielectric

As the manufacturing source for many suppliers and distributors globally, we can help you find the millimeter wave product you need. This website contains just a small fraction of what we build and supply the world with.
